By Rebecca Matter

If you're like most folks new to the idea of the writer's life, you probably have a TON of questions.

And after nearly 20 years of helping folks like you become successful copywriters ...

Another one of the most common questions we get asked is ...

Aren't there enough copywriters already?

Even though AWAI has trained thousands of new copywriters every year for almost 20 years, the answer is still overwhelmingly NO. There aren't enough copywriters!

There are literally millions of companies who need trained copywriters.

Not a week goes by that I don't get email from companies, wondering where they can find their next star writer.

These folks all have generous budgets set aside specifically for copywriting.

In short, the name of the game here is abundance.

It all starts with understanding what copywriting is all about ... and following the four simple steps to get started.
